My dear Mr Lormen

Many thanks for your kind letter, evinc. for your constant interest in my welfare. I think upon reflection you will agree with me that a second appeal through the papers would produce little effect, and perhaps lower me in general opinion. It appears to me natural, that all who really feel my interest, have already subscribed

And from America, has nothing more been collected than the £ 25 from the friend of Mr Field.
I thought that Longfellow's name would have created more interest for me, especially in a country where Dollars are so freely squandered away upon trifles. My son is is occupied in painting a small portrait for you, if it should turn out to be a good likeness.

I will forward it to you through the Spanish Embassy in London.

With my earnest wishes for your health and happiness I remain Dear Sir

Yours very sincerely
J. Heats de Luns
